

Monique Huynh

2021 PNC Scholar

Monique is of Chinese-Vietnamese descent.

From a young age, she struggled to find harmony in the clash between three cultures and began to fall out of touch with the language she felt that she was supposed to know.

In her senior year at Central High School, she proudly embraced the various traditions she has grown up with. Monique served as president of the Traditional East Asian Club, where she connected with other students of similar cultural backgrounds and learned how better appreciate and accept her ethnicity.

She also participated in a number of extracurricular activities, including the badminton club, robotics club, and yearbook committee.

In the fall, Monique will be pursuing Computer Science at Drexel University.
